SPECIAL NOTICES. PERPETUAL BUILDING ASSOCIATION

Assets. $284,707 95 Liabilities for dues paid by members. 233,339 00 Interest and surplus fund...... 51,368 95 At the present time there is a general and widespread interest taken in the matter of Building Assocuations. The daily press and the monthly magazines are ventilating the subject, and new schemes and plans are being brought forward to catch the unwary. The only real and true test is this: If you borrow a sum of money from an association, how much do you have to pay back in order to be clear of debt? We believe the "Perjetual" will stand this test better than any plan or scheme yet devised. Thus: We advance $1,050 on 'shares, for a total payment of $14 monthly for 100 months, or, in other words, you get out $1,050 and pay back $1,400, or $550 more than you take out, which is the interest for the loan for 8 years and 4 months. Any portion, or the whole of the debt, can be paid off at any time. Shares can be taken at any time and no back dues required. Persons owning a lot can have the money to build a house, and the monthly dues will be about what they would have to pay for rent.
Fersons subscribing for shares as an investment can have their money refundace and 5 per cent intarest, or at maturity of the shares. It'll percent per annum. Next

PROFESSORS FOR THE CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY WILL NOT BE ALLOWED TO LAND. -Solicitor Hepburn, of the Treasury, has decided that foreign professors are not among the classes excepted from the law that forbids the importation of alien contract labor. This is in reply to a letter of inquiry from the managers of the Catholic university to be established here, who desire to bring a corps of instructors from Europe to engage in the work of the institution. The solicitor warns the university that if these professors are brought into the country under contract it will be a violation of the law.

FRAUDS IN APPOINTMENTS. The Result of the New York Custom House Inquiry.

e Kvening S

THE CIVIL-SERVICE COMMISSIONERS MAKE RECOM-MENDATIONS TO PREVENT FUTURE VIOLATIONS OF LAW-THEY SUGGEST CERTAIN REMOVALS AND AN INDICTMENT IN ONE CASE.

The civil service commissioners, as stated in THE STAR, have concluded their investigation of alleged irregularities regarding examinations and appointments in the New York custom house. To-day they spread upon the minutes of the board a report of the conclusions of the board as follows:

The civil-service commission, having concluded in part their investigation into the recent management of the New York customhouse, so far as the behavior of the local examining board and the question of the proper observance of the civil-service law as regards entrance examinations are concerned, find as fol-

The recent management of the examinations for admission has been characterized by great Systematic Search and Repair Now 8 laxity and negligence and on the part of some of the custom-house employes by positive fraud, go 5 The clerk of the board himself testifies that e 6 certain of the examinations were farcical in character, and it has been clearly shown that at least in one case as a applicant for admission had his papers written for him by another person; that appli-cants have sometimes found out the questions in advance owing to the loose way of conducting the examinations, and have sometimes been given the examination papers beforehand by custom-house employes for personal, political or pecuniary considerations.

Accusations have been made to the commis sion showing that the practice of keeping the markings and the list of eligibles secret has given rise in the minds of applicants to the sus-picion, whether well or ill-founded cannot now be said, that those who were without political backing did not receive justice. As an instance, one Michael Hart passed an examination for opener and packer, standing at the very head of the list, with a mark of 95 per cent, as the books show, yet not only was he never informed that he had passed, but even his constant inquiry at the office, as he asserts, failed to procure him the information. This instance is but one of many that satisfy the commission of the wisdom of making the list of eligibles public, for, though doing so is attended by certain disadvantages, it nevertheless operates as a guarantee of good faith on the part of examing boards and as a powerful preventive of fraud.

Testimony has also been adduced to show that certain members of the examining board have openly sneered at and ridiculed the law they were supposed to enforce, and have permitted the examining-room to be made a headquarters and gathering place for politicians. This commission intends hereafter, wherever practicable, to insist that the examining board shall be composed of men who have not taken active part in political contests, in order that the examination shall be free from all suspicion | relatives.

ion as unnecessary and a hindrance to the prompt transaction of the public business. hune and Saul Hollander, custom-house employes, be dropped from the service, the testimony as to their conduct being conclusive. It is our opinion that the testimony taken in connection with the surrounding corroborative circumstances would also justify the removal of Frederick Davis. We also herewith file certain affidavits and evidence taken before us oncerning the case of Chas. F. Terhune. We be lieve that he should be indicted and prosecuted under section 5 of the civil service law, as the affidavits of two witnesses and his own confession before this commission in our own opinion clearly prove him to have been guilty of violating said law. This matter will be brought to the attention of the district attorney for the southern district of New York.

A Story About Gen. MacFeely Denied. The War department will be unable to furnish any food supplies to the flood sufferers in Pennsylvania because there are none on hand to give. Gen. MacFeely, the commissary general of subsistence, had a consultation with the Secretary in which he showed him that there is absolutely nothing in store in the way of food | real committeemen, but to sham committeemen. to send. An absurd story found its way into circulation this morning to the effect that the failure of the department to send the food was due to an absolute refusal on the part of Gen. MacFeely to comply with the Secretary's order on the ground that there was no legal authority for such a step. This was met at the War de partment to-day with a most positive denial from both Secretary Proctor and Gen. Mac-Feely. The latter said that an official would be worse than foolish to hesitate a moment, if he had government bread, in supplying all that calamity as this.

The City Post-Office. The city post-office was filled up last night with stacks upon stacks of delayed matter. Train after train arriving from the west over the Baltimore and Ohio added to the heap.

Some of this mail has been delayed five or six days. The accumulation in the office innational bank of that city is flooded, but ex- creased to-day, but was being rapidly discases badly mixed up, as they had come by roundabout routes. REPORTS OF ROBBERIES EXAGGERATED. Roger O'Meara, a superintendent of police of Pittsburg, who has been here for two days looking for crooks and pickpockets, said that the reports about robberies and thieving were very greatly exaggerated. Said he:
"There are no professional thieves in Johnstown, and this is not the place where they would be liable to work. They may come up in the crowded trains and rob the passengers, yet they would just be as likely to help with the work here as not. No professional thief would work the dead here, as there is little or nothing for them to gain, and there are so many police that it would be almost impossible for them to evade detection. All the thieving that has been done has been done by a lot of tramps and bums. One thing I notice here is not enough workers. In fact, there are more relievers than there are sufferers, and almost every man you meet has a vellow ribbon on. of filling their stomachs than they do of relieving the poor. tute in Johnstown proper this morning by their outrageous conduct. Some men employed by J. S. Chettell, a local contractor, were put to work at rescuing bodies shortly after daylight. Two of the home soldiers were patrolling the place, and when they saw the men at work they told them they would have to stop operations immediately. This they re-fused to do, saying they had been employed by the citizens committee to do the work. The soldiers gave them one minute to get away from the place. As they were in no hurry to obey the guards fired two shots, but did not succeed in hitting the workmen, who started on a run for General Hastings' headquarters. No one was there at the time, but the matter was reported to the general, and he stated that the shooters would be courtmartialled immediately if caught.

AN ESTIMATE OF THE LOST. Conservative men are of the opinion that the number of people destroyed will reach from 12,000 to 15,000. This view of it is based on many fragments of evidence obtained from over 100 citizens, being careful to select as intelligent men and women as could be found, They were chosen from as many occupations as possible, and from as many occupations as possible, and from as many social classes. They were asked to estimate the percentage of loss to the total population; to tell how many people of their acquaintance have disappeared; how the gatherings of residents on the streets and in public places on the streets and in public places. dents on the streets and in public places compare with the same in former times. Their statements of fact and estimates were proved as far as could be, and the pendulum of calcula-tion seems to be beating time when they swing from twelve thousand to fifteen thousand.
